Peek into Rockbank's future

A draft Urban Design Framework Plan has been released in collaboration with the Victorian Planning Authority, showcasing the planned future Rockbank Town Centre.

Anyone wanting to find out more about the plan can attend the drop-in information session on 23 August from 5pm-8pm, to discuss the future town centre that will include shopping, services, food and entertainment and community facilities, including an indoor recreation centre.

Members of the Ballarat Rail Project, as well as Melton City Council's 'My City My Say' team, will be available to provide information on the plan, as well as Council services, facilities and programs planned for the area.

Anyone who cannot attend Rockbank Hall at 24 Old Leakes Road, Rockbank, can comment on the draft of the plan on Council's website, between 13 August and 21 September.

City of Melton Mayor, Cr Bob Turner, said: "We want to make sure Rockbank and surrounds can thrive, and community feedback is so important to this achieving this.

Catering will be provided at the session.
