

What is a sling

Slings are an integral part of ceiling hoist equipment. While available in many styles and sizes, they are all fitted around the user and provide the final connection to the lifting equipment.

CHS's large range includes specifically designed slings to suit both children and adults, whose needs vary greatly depending on the users ability to participate, level of body control and muscle tone, degree of mobility, amputations or other special needs.

CHS's slings are designed to be as easy to fit as possible, thus reducing effort for attendants whilst providing suitable comfort and support where needed.

Incorporated handles aid in manoeuvring the patient during the transfer, and the multiple colour coded connection points allow adjustments to ensure comfort, safety and dignity.

CHS representatives work in collaboration with healthcare professionals to ensure the correct prescription of sling is achieved, or re-assessment as the clients needs change.
